

San Diego's Paradise Point to Debut New Meetings and Event Space

Wednesday July 8th, 2015 - 4:03PM

SAN DIEGO—Paradise Point, A Destination Hotel, on San Diego's Mission Bay will this fall debut a new 15,500-sq.-ft. meeting and events space. The Sunset Pavilion, a modern space that will accommodate all types of functions, will bring Paradise Point's total meeting space to more than 80,000 sq. ft. and solidify its position as the biggest conference hotel in Mission Bay and the sixth largest in San Diego.

The Sunset Pavilion, located next to the resort's bayfront conference center and adjacent to the Sunset Terrace, will serve to accommodate larger groups of more than 1,000 guests, with the ability to divide into two prominent and separate rooms.

The pavilion's custom design will feature modern and luxurious amenities, including 120 ft. of glass walls and doors showcasing views of Mission Bay; custom hand-made chandeliers for ambient lighting; premium event carpeting; ceilings that rise from 13 to 28 ft. and 4,000 sq. ft. of outdoor pre-function space on the adjacent terrace.

The space will also feature full rigging capabilities for A/V, wireless capability for up to 2,000 devices and full LED control panels for lighting, heating and air conditioning in both sections.
