

What to Do in San Diego for Valentine's Weekend

👤 Jackie Bryant 📅 February 10, 2015

For the Love Birds

Written by: Jackie Bryant

It's easy to celebrate when you live in a place where people vacation. San Diego's weather, geography, and range of urban to rural areas make it the perfect city to do any number of exciting things in a short span of time – things that are even more fun with a special someone in tow! Below are some of the best options for eating, drinking, sleeping, and doing that San Diego has to offer for a weekend of love.

STAY

Paradise Point

1404 Vacation Road, San Diego, CA 92109 | 858.274.4630 | www.paradisepoint.com

As the name implies, when arriving at Paradise Point, you could be forgiven for suddenly thinking you landed on a tropical island instead of Mission Bay. As if that weren't enough, they have a great Valentine's Day special that includes dinner at their award-winning waterfront restaurant and two nights in one of their bungalow-style rooms. The resort also has a full suite of spa treatments, and, of course, water sports and beachfront hanging with that special someone.

