

What are the best activities to do in San Diego?

+ FOLLOW QUESTION

ANSWER THIS QUESTION

Answers from Our Experts (2)

Julia Weiler
Correspondent

While San Diego has enough activities to keep residents and visitors occupied year-round, summertime evokes even more possibilities. One of the best ways to get in on the action is to stay at one of the county's many fine resorts where outdoor recreation and special events are tailored to take advantage of long sunny days and warm balmy nights.

Guests of The Grand Del Mar will delight in the triple Five-Star resort's summer activities lineup. Sip espresso and nibble biscotti under the stars as you view Italian movies in an al fresco setting with "Cinema Sotta Le Stelle", or compete in a glow-in-the-dark golf-driving contest at The Grand's Tom Fazio-designed course. Guests and non-guests alike can enjoy outdoor performances by world-class musicians during the Summer Concerts at The Grand series.

If boat-based adventures are more your thing, consider staying at the Sheraton San Diego Hotel and Marina where you can enjoy discounted rates on sailing and motor-yacht cruises. Sail with Jada Charters and explore the bay aboard a 1938, 65-foot Philip Rhodes Yawl, or enjoy cocktails and canapés from the luxurious decks of The Inspiration, a fully restored 63-foot mahogany motor yacht.

For family-friendly activities that make a real splash plan a vacation at Paradise Point Resort & Spa. Located on a private island in Mission Bay, the resort has a tropical island feel and unparalleled access to the water. Kids can get in on the resort's abundance of aquatic adventures by enrolling in Watersports Camp. The fun-filled program offers five days of wake boarding, surfing and jet skiing excitement on the water.